

280. Why is it that the house sewer is usually the first phase of the plumbing layout that must be installed?

- (a) As the basis of the basement elevation and plot plan of the building
- (b) Excavation of the building may be drained during inclement weather
- (c) To serve as a starting point for the house drain
- (d) To be the reference point of the building elevations

280. Why is it that the house sewer is usually the first phase of the plumbing layout that must be installed?

- (a) As the basis of the basement elevation and plot plan of the building
- (b) Excavation of the building may be drained during inclement weather
- (c) To serve as a starting point for the house drain
- (d) To be the reference point of the building elevations

