

527. Pipe is one of the oldest plumbing materials and very suitable for underground installation, but never recommended to convey water for human consumption because it is poisonous:

(a) Copper pipes

(c) Clay pipes

(b) Lead pipes

(d) Bituminous pipe

527. Pipe is one of the oldest plumbing materials and very suitable for underground installation, but never recommended to convey water for human consumption because it is poisonous:

(a) Copper pipes

(b) Lead pipes

(c) Clay pipes

(d) Bituminous pipe

